Energy Efficiency:

LEDs, or light-emitting diodes, are a form of solid-state lighting that is extremely efficient and long-lasting. While incandescent and fluorescent lights consist of filaments in glass bulbs or bulbs that contain gases, LEDs consist of small capsules or lenses in which tiny chips are placed on heat-conducting material

There is infinity of benefits and the most palpable are:

Size and Efficiency

LEDs measure from 3 to 8 mm long and can be used singly or as part of an array. The small size and low profile of LEDs allow them to be used in spaces that are too small for other light bulbs. In addition, because LEDs give off light in a specific direction, they are more efficient in application than incandescent and fluorescent bulbs, which waste energy by emitting light in all directions.

Long Life

The life of a high-power white LED is projected to be from 35,000 to 50,000 hours, compared to 750 to 2,000 hours for an incandescent bulb, 8,000 to 10,000 hours for a compact fluorescent and 20,000 to 30,000 hours for a linear fluorescent bulb.

Lower Temperatures

Conventional light bulbs waste most of their energy as heat. For example, an incandescent bulb gives off 90 percent of its energy as heat, while a compact fluorescent bulb wastes 80 percent as heat.

Let us know if you would like an estimate to let you know much energy you could save using LED light bulbs.

Fumigation:

The use of pesticides and insecticides can be dangerous to your health, we care about you, developing an environmental atmosphere our subcontractor use organic insecticide, based on herbs, citrus and garlic, and with one monthly visit you will keep away all type of insects and if necessary fumigation company could do as many visits takes to have control of the property.
